

Gods Will

Luke 24; 36 - 49 : If you've ever had a door at your home that, left open, closes itself to the point where the door meets the door frame all by itself every single time, you know what a pain it is if you have to go through that door a bunch of times. If moving out or moving in, arms full of stuff, furniture, the door's in the way of where you need to be. Here's a trick you may know - just pop out the middle hinge pin, put it in a vise, bend the pin slightly, pop it back in the door hinge. Then the door stays open when you need it. Sometimes, Christ has to bend us to His will so our minds stay open to His truth. Through everything, Christ bent the disciples at their core - loss, grief, what seemed to them a crazy kind of hope, doubt, confusion, victory. Some - I repeat, some, not all, adversity is His, bends us, opens our minds, and finally, we get His point.
