

Sunday Evening Home Worship Guide

“Open with prayer.

Hey there! Most of us speak English; we hope somewhat well. Most of us are monolingual, people who are fluent in only one language. A polyglot (I just learned that English word) is someone who has mastered several languages. There are many theories as to how a select group of people can be polyglots: brain structure, ability to see similarities between languages, and more. Of course, the theory that such an ability is physical implies we can either speak in several languages or not; we either have it, or we don't. However, we all can be given the greatest of abilities. Jude's doxology tells us everyone can be someone who is pleasing in God's sight. God makes us able if we have faith in Him.

Read Jude 1:24-25.

Discuss with your family or think and pray on your own: Can we keep ourselves from stumbling and, instead, make ourselves perfect? How much can we be focused on ourselves and still understand God as Savior and Jesus Christ as Lord? If the word, "doxology," means, "word of glory," how does such meaning apply to this scripture?

Close with prayer in thanksgiving to God.”
